OF SPECIAL NOTE
Reduced Daylight in Winter
In Southern Finland, the shortest day in winter is 6 hours long; although in general, Helsinki averages about 12 hours of daylight at this time of the year. In winter, Northern Finland experiences a phenomenon known as polar night when the sun never fully rises. The effect is not pitch black, but almost like twilight. Northern Finland receives only about 3-4 hours of daylight in December and January. In February, days average about 5-8 hours of sunshine. In March, days are getting brighter and Northern Finland receives about 9-12 hours of daylight.

Cold Weather Photography
Battery life is greatly reduced in cold weather. Bring two sets of rechargeable batteries and a charger. During outings, a set of spare batteries should be carried in an inside pocket to keep them as warm as possible. If you have a small camera, attach it to a lanyard so you can carry it under your parka. It also helps to keep it in a waterproof bag when not taking pictures; snow can disable a camera. If you have a larger camera, consider a specialized waterproof covering. Also be sure to bring lens cleaning materials such as a micro-cloth.

Keep Connected
Extreme cold weather will diminish your phone’s charge and it’s best to keep your mobile phone in an inner pocket of your parka and avoid taking it out in frigid temperatures.

Please be prepared for periods of time during your journey where Wi-Fi internet access may not be available. On daily excursions, there may be remote wilderness locations where reception will be affected.

PACKING LIST
Daytime attire: It is imperative that you pack clothing that is specifically created for cold climate and windy conditions. Pack a comfortable, warm coat and boots, along with casual clothing in breathable fabrics that you can layer.

Evening attire: You may want to pack one or two smart casual outfits for evening dining in restaurants. Formal clothing is not necessary.

TIPS FOR STAYING WARM
As a general rule, pack clothing you can layer. In colder destinations, it’s important not to overdress to the point of perspiration, and important to wear waterproof clothing. Wet skin can quickly lead to a dangerous loss of body heat. Wearing several medium-weight layers of clothing made of breathable materials under your parka allows you to adjust your personal temperature at will.

Each layer has a function. The base layer “transfers” moisture to upper layers and will help keep your body dry and comfortable. It’s best to have long thermal underwear made of lightweight, breathable material against your skin. Thermal underwear should fit snugly. Woolen thermals, silk or a combination of synthetic and merino wool are recommended. Avoid cotton, as it traps moisture and can cause you to become chilled.

The mid layer provides insulation to trap warmth created by your body heat. Fabrics such as Polartec®, Pertex® or lightweight wool materials will keep you warm. Clothing that is too tight does not allow for airflow, causing you to feel cold.

The outer layer should provide protection against moisture and wind and allow freedom of movement. Wind and water-resistant materials are the best protection in wet snow. The outer layer should be large enough to fit over the top of several mid layers.

- Your hat should protect your head, ears and neck. Wool or fleece with a wind-protecting liner is best. Gloves should be windproof, have a warm liner and enough “wiggle room” for your fingers. In very cold weather, both gloves and mittens provide the best protection. Shoes should be large enough to allow space for extra socks or insoles.
